The Hours

Oak leaves lie jumbled on the deck, thick and sharp as carved wood. They seem medieval. Their round edges curve among the seed balls like the borders of The Hours doodled by monks, but without dolphins or the beginning of letters in any language I can understand.